*) Square-shaped coins are a type of coin peculiar to Sweden. Coining of big-sized copper-pieces goes back as far as 1644 when the 10-Daler appeared. Coining of square-shaped pieces then went on till 1776. The material used was mainly copper from the Falun Copper Mine which has been worked for 800 years and is still being worked today. The values in use were: 10, 8, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 and ½ Daler. In 1715 the weight of the 1-daler piece was fixed at 0.757 kilo (1 pound 10.7 ounces). The 10-Daler-piece from 1644 is the biggest coin in the world (30×70 cm. or 12"×28", weight 19.7 kilos or 44 pounds). 25539 pieces were minted of which only four have been preserved.
